A White woman Eloping was a Negro.

One day last week a strapping nigger, and a fine looking, well dressed white woman, some twenty-two years of age, passed through this place in company, each carrying a carpet sack. They called at Mr. Cowner on a mile or two south of town for some bread, which was given them. The woman wrapped it up in a copy of the Ashtan wrapped it up of the young lady, came along in search of the precious couple. We learned from him that the negro was a fugitive slave from Ten-nessee, and that he arrived in Jefferson, Ashtabula county, some two years ago. He Ashtabula county, some two years ago. He had been petted by the Abolition fanatics of the town, and the father of the unfortunate girl had made his house the home of the darkey, and had taught his children the doctrines of the Republican party of the Reserve, that no distinction should be made on account of color, and that the negro is entitled to all the civil and political rights
